

Tech Tip - Driving Lights Switch

By Dan Brooks

I would like to share this weekend's solution as to where to mount the toggle switch for my new fog lamps. I simply substituted the one that controls the panel lights with one similar to the headlight toggle. This new panel toggle now controls the dash lights with the first click, and then with the second click the fog lamps are lighted and the dash lights also. This makes a nice neat installation, without affecting appearance. The cost of the new switch was $30.00 from Victoria British.
